

Husband

Husband and wife are equal, though not similar, like the two wheels of a chariot, both of which are needed to maintain the proper balance; Men take out their tensions on their wives... who are the strongest part of any family... and have the capacity to bear and absorb all this; The husband is to be respected by the wife, and also to be respectable; Men feel they want to be superior, but this domination of the men is a myth. The women are the real power, the shakti of the family (810328)

One should understand that as a husband, you have to get things corrected (950625); When you are married... you must love your wife... spend time with her. She is the one who is your companion... she is the one who should be consulted... and you must be with her... and that should be your greatest joy in life as far as the material side is concerned (790609.3)
